And Remanded Until August 8-Miss Leneve, Who is Ill, Questioned at Home of Chief of Police-Neither Will Fight Extradition-Both Frisoners Under the Fugitive Offender Act, Must Remain Here at Least Fifteen Days-Interesting Sidelights on the Actions of the Pair on the Voyage Across the Atlantic.

Quebec, Que., Aug. 1.—Probably not before August 18 will Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen and Ethel Clare Leneve be taken aboard a transatlantic liner bound for England, there to stand trial, jointly accused of murdering a woman believed to have been Belle Elmore the doctor's American wife. The criminal law of the British possessions established this today when the haggarid dentist whose flight when the haggard dentist whose flight ended so dramatically aboard the steamship Montrose yesterday morn-ing, was arraigned before a magis-trate and remanded until August 8.

Will Not Fight Extradition. Neither he nor the girl will resist extradition. Although too ill to appear in court the questions prescribed by law were put to Miss Leneve as she sat weakly in a chair at the home of Chief McCarthy of the provincial police. As Crippen had said at his arraignment earlier in the day she too evinced willingness to go back to England for trial. She answered the conestions in an almost inaudible voice. estions in an almost inaudible voice d seemed on the verge of collapse. As was her male companion, she was a shoard. The pair spent most of their remanded until August 8.

Until late in the day the judge and other passengers so far as possible."

As was her male companion, she was remanded until August 8.

Until late in the day the judge and the police believed that the girl's examination would have to be postponed, but finally they decided to question her at Chief McCarthy's house, so that both prisoners might be ready to return to England on the same boat at the earliest date permitted by law. He is as a man exhausted and he has sunk into the quicksand of the law without a struggle. Of the girl's attitude less is known. She is still broken in body and spirit, alternately shaken with sobs or silently morose. Her relatives in London are besieging her by cable to tell all and the Quebec police are treating her with a bec police are treating her with a gentleness rarely shown a prisoner,

Taken Before Provincial Court, through a curious crowd like battered human wedge, Crippen was a battered numan wedge, Crippen was taken before the provincial court of special sessions today where he was formally questioned as to his identify and notified that he was under arrest for the murder of an unknown woman. Pemanding him to August 8 was pureremanding him to August 8 was purely perfunctory for he and his commanion under the fugitive offender act,

Fo on the eighth he will be remanded again until the fifteenth, and the first evailable vessel for England will not depart until three days later.

By that time another detective from Scotland Yard will have arrived, bringing a formal application for ex-tradition, though this application will not probably be necessary if the ac-cused man's declaration that he will raise no obstacles to check his return

Sergeant Mitchell, who brings the application from London, will aid inspector Dew in taking the prisoners back for trial.

Liberal Treatment of Miss Leneve Although Crippen was the center of altention when arraigned, perhaps the most interesting development of the day was the extremely liberal der but the girl was seen today en-joying the freedom of the house of Chief of Police McCarthy. When taken had been transferred to a hospital, but this proved to be incorrect. She is back in juil tonight, under the care of a physician, but visitors to the chiefs house say they had a glimpse of her walking about in the yard for breath of air, under careful but unbirusive surveillance.

Many believe the police are so markedly lenient with Miss Leneve not have the police with the police.

The only other prisoners in the corridor were two French Canadians, serving short two French Canadians, serving short centences for a street brawl. His jailer said the dentist did not talk to them. Thus far be has been a model prisoner, making no requests and giving the keepers no worry. There are several ways in which the prisoner might make himself troublesome to the authorities. He might ask to have the American consai notified or seek an attorney to insure that he gets fair treatment. The United States consultance is Gebhardt Willrich, a former treatment. The United States consul-here is Gebhardt Willrich, a former resident of Milwaukee and St. Paul. Minn. Mr. Willrich said today that while he stood ready to give Crippen all consistent assistance he had no application and he expected none. In fact he added, he saw no way in which he could better the situation of the prisoner in any way.

Inspector Dew the Envy of Quebec Inspector Dew, whom Scotland Yard put on Crippen's track when the wireless from Captain Kendall of the Montrose brought word that the dentist was aboard, is resting here after his labors, an object of curiosity to residents and to the tourists who throng this queer old French city at this time of the year, and the envy and the admiration of the local police. Now that the fugitives are in prison the inspector's responsibility is suspended, not to be resumed again until they start back to London.

A Statement Without Foundation in Fact.

The statement issued by Premier Canalejas yesterday bearing on the controversy between the church and controversy between the church and the state has been carefully perused by the vatican officials, who wish it to be clearly understood that that pert of the statement in which it is declared that the holy see intended to concede to the Spanish government less than what was agreed to in 1904 is without foundation in fact. It is Canalejas, they declare who now wants greater concessions than those of 1904, on the plea that they were granted to the then Premier Maura and that Canalejas believed them at that time to be insufficient.
